JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIRST CALENDAR DAY
FIRST SESSION DAY

Senate Chamber
Des Moines, Iowa, Monday, January 13, 2003

Pursuant to chapter two (2), sections two point one (2.1) and two point three (2.3), Code of Iowa, the 2003 Regular Session of the Eightieth General Assembly convened at 10:02 a.m. The Senate was called to order by President Mary Kramer.

Prayer was offered by the Reverend Ken Arendson, associate pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Des Moines, Iowa. He was the guest of President Kramer.

OPENING REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Kramer addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Good morning and welcome to this beautiful chamber. It has been restored to historic grandeur and at the same time prepared to be functional for today's deliberations. And for that we owe many people a real debt of gratitude. Specifically, the architects who researched what could be—and with a wonderfully innovative spirit combined history with preparation for the future. The craftsman—what skill it took for them to reclaim and refurbish the wood, the marble, the windows, the seating, the desks—all beautifully and lovingly restored. The Senate staff, who have continued to function among all the construction, and who have assisted in many decisions that will make our lives easier but preserve the deliberative process. And to our predecessors whose vision of preservation is now bearing fruit. Thank you all.

Today, as we complete the swearing-in process, we complete what is considered a miracle in many other parts of the world. Orderly elections. The people have spoken and they have given us an awesome responsibility. To represent our constituency and all of Iowa. And if this campaign and election cycle did nothing else, it created a consensus in Iowa—we must grow our economy. Status quo is an unacceptable vision for the future. A window of opportunity has been given to us. We must not squander it. The stakes are too high.

So let's not waste our time debating whether education or economic growth is our top priority. Instead, we will continue to invest in and to improve our education systems, but we work equally as hard to create "destinations", that is, jobs so there is a vision for the desired future for our young people in Iowa.

We must seek new questions. For instance, the same multiple choice question is raised every time the Medicaid program is discussed. When asked, how will we fix Medicaid?, five multiple choice answers are given—cut benefits, cut eligibility, cut provider payment, all of the above, or none of the above. Because none of these actually solve the problem, none of the above has been the answer. Let's ask a new question. What do the various customers being served by the Medicaid program need? Then we can look for new ways of providing those needs. This will require cooperation and collaboration, not name calling and fingerpointing. In other words, leadership. Harry Truman said, ". . . in periods where there is no leadership, society stands still. Progress occurs when courageous, skillful leaders seize the opportunity to change things for the better." We were elected to lead and we have opportunity to change things for the better.

Iowa has severe economic problems to be sure. But due to some unique structural foresight and some very difficult decision making over the past few years, our problems are not of the magnitude of many other states. We have a unique opportunity, if we are nimble and innovative enough, to create a business platform for growth that will vault us into a leadership position among the states and in the world.

We then have another opportunity—culminating in January 2004—when the caucus system will thrust us into the world limelight for several months. If we have made the changes we need to make, we will have a great story to tell, and the marketing and promotion opportunity provided during that time period can be priceless! The window of opportunity is short. Will we seize these opportunities for leadership?

The words to a song written for the Olympics several years ago say—"give me one moment in time to be more than I thought I could be—when all of my dreams are a heartbeat away and the answers are all up to me." We have been given our one moment in time.

Nelson Mandela, in his 1994 inaugural, provided these words—about the power and responsibility of each individual in relationship to their higher calling.

"Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate. Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness, that most frightens us. We ask ourselves, who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented, and fabulous? Actually, who are you not to be? You are a child of God. Your playing small doesn't serve the world. There's nothing enlightening about shrinking so that other people won't feel insecure around you. You were born to make manifest the glory of God that is within us. It's not just in some of us; it's in everyone. And as we let our light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same. As we are liberated from our own fear, our presence automatically liberates others."

I believe we have a common vision for the desired future of Iowa. It is a vision of a vibrant and growing economy that provides great opportunity and preserves the values that serve us so well.

And so we begin.

REMARKS BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Senator Iverson addressed the Senate as follows:

I want to welcome all of you to the 2003 Legislative Session. This year's session will deal with many of the most pressing issues facing our state. One thing that I have learned as a legislator is that if the legislature tries to address all of the challenges facing Iowa, it will accomplish nothing. Therefore, to be successful, the legislature must set specific goals and identify the best way to accomplish those goals.

Three of the goals that I have heard expressed most in the time leading up to the start of the legislative session are (1) creating more wealth for all Iowans, (2) developing a stable financial future for state government, and (3) boosting student achievement in Iowa's classrooms. I think it is important to stress that these are not Republican goals, they are not Democrat goals, they are the goals of all Iowans. The key is how we go about accomplishing these goals.

Let's start with creating more wealth for all Iowans. A lot of Iowans are coming to the realization that we have to change how Iowans pay taxes. Our income, sales, and property tax systems are not set up in a way that promotes growth and creates wealth for all Iowans. We need to look at the things we tax and the things we don't tax, and ask "Does our tax on this activity significantly impact our ability to grow Iowa and create wealth?" We also need to look at those things we don't tax and ask "Why don't we tax these activities—is it because the activity promotes growth and creates wealth?" If the answer to that question is no, then maybe it is time we take the tax off of those things that promote growth and create wealth and instead tax those items that don't grow Iowa or create wealth.

This is a bold concept, especially for those items that we currently don't tax and yet don't provide much economic activity. But if we want to get Iowa growing again, then we must think boldly.

Another key to creating wealth for all Iowans is reinvigorating the Iowa Department of Economic Development. State government can't create jobs, but it can create opportunities for jobs to come to Iowa. Frankly, state government is failing in its efforts to lure good-paying jobs to Iowa—a job that is the responsibility of the Iowa Department of Economic Development. The legislature needs to establish some performance standards for this department, and if these performance measures are not met, then we need to look at another entity, maybe even a private entity, to run our job creation programs in state government.

And if we want to create more good-paying jobs in Iowa, we need to conduct a comprehensive review of how we regulate business in Iowa. Those regulations that are duplicative, outdated, or violate Iowa's commonsense tradition need to be eliminated. In addition to growing the economy, we have to develop a stable financial footing for the future of state government. That starts by returning fiscal responsibility and common sense to the state budget process. Republicans are committed to working with Democrats to balance Iowa's budget, but we are not willing to violate our commitment to sound budgeting practices in order to get there. Balancing the budget requires tough choices and it means that no sacred cow can be ignored—just as we are doing with our tax code. We have to take a long look at our state labor costs and what steps can be taken to get these costs under control.

The Program Elimination Commission has generated a great deal of discussion regarding what areas of state government can be downsized or eliminated. This group of Iowans, which included Senators Mike Connolly and Neal Schuerer, put in a lot of thought and work into this very important issue, and we should give their report very serious consideration. Two of the most important areas that the commission identified were sentencing reforms and Medicaid cost-containment measures.

And, finally, this session will see us continue to focus on boosting student achievement in the classroom. There will be strong efforts made to eliminate inequities in funding provided to our schools, and there will be efforts to enhance the accountability of our local schools.

This may sound like a long list of goals and the task may seem daunting right now, but I know we are up to the task. I look forward to working with each and every one of you to make this a very productive session for the people of Iowa.

REMARKS BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Senator Gronstal addressed the Senate as follows:

Thank you, Madam President.

Madam President and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.

First of all, I'd like to welcome the new members, those of you that moved from the lower chamber to the upper chamber, those who won reelection last fall on the campaign trail, and the holdover senators who were lucky enough to have NOT been on the campaign trail last fall.

It is good to see all of you.

For the past two years, we have waded through an unprecedented fiscal crisis, resulting in deep cuts in services that are critical to many Iowa families.

Unfortunately, the past two years were also highlighted by unprecedented partisan bickering and a remarkable lack of bipartisan cooperation.

What I am hoping for this year is a change of heart. And this is not just wishful thinking.

History tells us that we are at our best in the Iowa Legislature when we sit down, resolve our differences, and move ahead with confidence and boldness.

When we are together and bold, the people of Iowa—whether they are Republican or Democrat—are the winners.

When we look back over the past few years, what are we proudest of?

- We can all be proud of the landmark legislation in 1999 that has resulted in smaller class sizes and—after a decade of slipping test scores—we are finally seeing increased student achievement. Iowa's children and educators deserve our praise and respect for their progress.
- We broke new ground by creating the Senior Living Trust, which will result in more choices and a better quality of life for older Iowans.
- We came together to approve a Clean Water Initiative that is a model for other states hoping to clean up their drinking water with buffer strips and other innovative measures.
- In an effort to keep more of our best and brightest graduates in Iowa, we created dozens of new recreational and cultural opportunities with the Vision Iowa program.
- And let's not forget last year's bipartisan legislation that was designed to tackle the problem of factory farms and to ensure that the quality of life in rural Iowa is better protected for our children and grandchildren.

What's the common theme for all those initiatives: All were broadly bipartisan measures that involved negotiations and discussions with the Governor's office and legislators of both parties.

With a new Legislature, the election behind us, and improving fiscal news, we must resist the temptation to hunker down or "play it safe."

Instead, I call on Republicans and Democrats in the Senate and House to work together to take the bold steps necessary this year to ensure that when this session is over, we can go home and honestly say, "I have made Iowa a better place to live!!!"

Democrats stand here today committed to work with you in a bipartisan way to solve this challenge. During the last campaign, Democrats and Republicans promised to address several core issues—including better jobs, better schools, ensuring public safety.

Now it is time for us to sit down and work together to make sure we fulfill ALL our common promises to the people of Iowa.

What Iowans want and need now is for us to solve problems, to be bold, and to make Iowa an even better place to live, work, and raise a family.

So, let's get to work—together.

Thank you, Madam President.

My focus will continue to be on transportation, education, and high-speed telecommunications. I pledge to work together on these and any issues that provide for a better future for our children and grandchildren.

The honor of my life has been my daily service to Iowans as a state senator. Service in the United States Congress cannot diminish that honor. I look forward to the upcoming years and the opportunity to build a network of cooperation from Washington, D.C., to Des Moines, and to Iowa's new Fifth Congressional District.
